I have the 737NG for FS9 and have flown it all over, but it's been a long time and I have forgotten how to start it. I am going to install FSX and will be buying the NGX and it looks a lot more complicated. Does the manual step you through starting the beast? I have the manuals for the 737NG and the manual really didn't go through that it just says what all the gauges do.
